

Category 7: O Hapa Days!

We participate in a world of cultural/heritage mixture; plants, puppies, people, paintings . . . that give us pleasure and make us smile. I'm part of an interracial family, so mixed culture is literally smiling in my face every day. But this category is not limited to people. Any poignant capture of mixture will do, like eating sushi with mayo, or hearing a child interpret for his non-English speaking parents. How about that tattoo you saw on someone the other day, or the kukui nut necklace you bought in Hawaii, but don't wear?

Good luck and have fun! J.C. Kato
